Indian Missionary Council

The Baltimore Gazette of January 14th has the annexed

An important Indian Council was held today, called by the Board of Indian Commissioners, now in session here, at which were present all the members of the Board, and missionaries representing the various missionary societies and religious sects under whom the Indian policy is being carried out, the missionaries present being H A Spaulding, the veteran Missionary of the Nez Perces, of Idaho Presbyterian, Father De Smet, Catholic Missionary of Upper Missouri, Thomas Wistor, of Philadelphia, Orthodox Friends Benj Latham, of New York John Garrett and M Farl of the Orthodox Friends, Samuel Townsend, of Baltimore, Hicksite Friends, Dr Harris Secretary of the Methodist Missionary Society, Dr Fries, of the Reformed Church, Dr Whipple and General Howard, of the American Missionary Society, Dr Lowe, of Boston, and Rev Hickly, of this city, of the Unitarian Society, also Secretary Delano and Commissioner Parker Hon William Welch, Chairman, opened the meeting by proposing the question "What measure of responsibility belongs to the religious body that nominates agents?" A general discussion resulted in the adoption of the following resolution

That, in the opinion of this Conference, it is necessary that the religious or benevolent associations which are called upon to recommend Indian agents shall be at liberty to select such agents as they have full confidence in and shall be willing to become morally responsible for, without reference to the locality of their residence or political opinion provided they shall be restrained from using their positions for partisan purposes

The second motion was whether the Western men residing in the neighborhood of Indian reservations only, should be nominated as agents

Rev. Mr Ferris stated that the reservation in Arizona had been committed to the care of his society by the President, and the Society felt that if they were to be held responsible for the moral conduct of their agents they must nominate men whom they knew, and they, therefore, had to take men from the east of the Mississippi

The general sense of the meeting was that the society should be kept free to choose from either section The following resolution was adopted

That in the opinion of this meeting it was desirable that the agents of any religious association, and should be constantly watched by the association and its aid invoked by promoting the civilization and christianization of the Indians

That, in the event of a person recommended as an Indian agent not being satisfactory to the President or to the Senate, it be requested that the religious body authorized to make the recommendation be notified immediately, and asked to suggest another person in accordance with the practice of the Department The third question was Is it good policy to have ministers of the Gospel as agents?

The general sense of the meeting was against the practice, but it was decided that it should be left open

The following resolution was adopted.

That this Conference composed of the President, Board of Indian Commissioners, and the official representatives of the religious bodies invited by the Government to co-operate with the Administration in its efforts to civilize and Christianize the Indian race, in recommending agents for the management of the different tribes, regarded the policy of the President as one of the most philanthropic measures that the Government has ever undertaken, and having faith in its success we heartily commend this policy to the good judgment and co operation of the people of the United States

The next question was—should school houses be built at the expense of the Government or by missionary societies?

The majority decided that the expense would be too heavy for the missionary societies to undertake The following resolution was adopted

That as one of the most effective means of creating a correct public opinion in support of the President s policy in reference to the Indians and of a deeper conviction of the moral accountability to christianize them it is desirable that voluntary associations be formed in the larger commercial centres of the country, as have already been done in New York, Massachusetts, Oregon and elsewhere

Secretary Delano expressed great gratification at the general character and unanimity of the meeting, and said the President's policy was an admirable one But he had a great work to do He said the agents sent to the Indians are your own, and the only right we reserve is the right of instantaneous dismissals where they are unworthy

The following resolutions were adopted

In the opinion of this Conference it is important that the military officers stationed in any agency shall be in harmony with the policy of the President that this Conference freely sympathise with the determination of the Government to secure the Indians their reservations and protect them from encroachments on those lands, and that the thanks of the meeting be tendered to the press and the missionaries

Two Pictures

WHY DID PARIS FALL?—WHY GERMANY HAS BEATEN FRANCE DOWN

[From the San Francisco Commercial Herald]

Paris has fallen! Why did it fall? On one side, a mighty nation—composed of recently separate and independent powers but lately amalgamated and welded together in one solid mass by a master mind, thoroughly impregnated with a spirit of martial rivalry which would not permit either branch to see itself surpassed by another; and all actuated by one common object, the largest, best disciplined and most perfectly equipped army in the world each man a trained gladiator, furnished with the best weapons, especially in artillery generaled by the most accomplished captains of the age guided by the shrewdest diplomat of modern times minutely informed of the topography of the country they were to invade leaving nothing to chance reducing everything to exact science, organized arranged, perfected in every corps, and moving with the rush and solidity of a cannon ball

On the other side, a numerous, proud, haughty people, effeminated by wealth and luxury, reposing unlimited confidence in their military prestige and history underrating their foe, marshaled by sexagenarian and over-confident generals, who thought they knew the whole art of war, and relied implicitly upon their past experiences relaxed discipline and wide spread demoralization, political differences of opinion personal jealousy and want of co operation among their leaders supplied by villainous contractors little or no attention to details, scarcity of provisions and ammunition, insufficient transportation incomplete organization, no settled plan of operations forced from the offensive to the defensive, dependent on foreign nations for arms and munitions of war, the regular army prisoners of war, and the entire army thoroughly disorganized either for military or political purposes These may not be pleasing pictures to many but they are true, and, being true, it is not difficult to understand why Paris fell

Starr King, when asked to define the difference between Universalists and Unitarians replied that "Universalists believed that God was too good to damn men eternally, and the Unitarians believed that men were too good to be eternally damned

An ingenuous young woman having heard that Mr Jefferson had made a fortune by playing "Rip Van Winkle," wondered when she saw him in the character, why he didn't wear better clothes

Judges' Salaries

[From the Pittsburg Commercial]

For many years the low salary paid to a Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States has been a positive disgrace to the nation It has been a scandal as well The place is the highest professional position to which a member of the Bar can attain or may aspire It is on all hands admitted that position calls for the most complete qualifications within the reach of a lawyer No man may be gifted with abilities or make professional acquisitions of knowledge or possess a refinement of the moral sense greater than the place calls for The opportunities, if not the demands of the position are such as to put into action and utilize whatever qualities natural or acquired, whatever attainments however shining or admirable the incumbent may possess In virtue of his office he becomes an exemplar more or less to the profession throughout the country, and unavoidably exerts an important influence upon their moral and intellectual character And from the nature and relations of his decisions, the credit or discredit of his performances is reflected upon the entire nation Yet heretofore one of these judges has not received a higher compensation for his time and labor than a village lawyer might earn by his practice Making all due allowance for the honor of the position as affording some remuneration, the salary has appeared ridiculously insufficient With the increased expensiveness of living and with the increasing tendency everywhere to estimate things by a pecuniary standard, the disparity between the services rendered and the wages paid for them would seem ever more glaring It is surprising that the recent movement in Washington for the increase of the judges salaries encounters any opposition, By reflecting and reasonable people generally we doubt not it will be heartily approved The fact that men qualified by talents and learning to be judges are willing to accept places so ill paid affords no justification for the niggardliness of the paymaster The nation owes something to its own character in the relation And then, though a lawyer here and there may not be less fit to be a judge because he happens to be indifferent to money, such unconcern must be allowed to be rather unprofessional To most first rate members of the profession, a good income at least must seem a legitimate object of pursuit In proportion as the country advances in wealth and refinement, justice to his family as well as himself, will forbid the lawyer in high practice to accept a position to which a low salary is attached Hence another reason for approving the increase of the judical wages in time, a reason urged by Mr. Dawes a few days ago with great force Unless the office pays well enough to attract, or at any rate so as not to repel truly able men learned in the law, there is danger that the Bench of the Supreme Court will be occupied by men so inferior in intellect and knowledge to many of the lawyers who conduct cases before them and that justice will suffer from the inequality It is a humiliating and pitiful sight a Judge made to play Mr Punch by an adroit performer in the person of an able advocate

THE HAMILTON AND BURR DUELLING GROUND Crossing over the ferry to Hoboken, a drive of five minutes from the Elysian fields brought me to the ancient spot, where in 1804 on the 11th of July, Alexander Hamilton was killed by Burr Formerly, a marble monument, erected by the St Andrew s society, marked the exact spot of the fatal encounter, and even as late as last year, when I visited the spot, a cedar tree, against which Hamilton stood while the seconds were arranging the preliminaries, was still standing Now, however the nearly completed bed of the West Side railroad has destroyed the tree beside every vestage of the narrow ledge on which the principals stood After the monument had disappeared, two granite boulders occupied its place, with the names of "Hamilton" and "Burr" inscribed upon them respectively After a somewhat protracted search we found the one marked "Hamilton," but the one with "Burr" on it was nowhere to be seen Inquiring of a gang of track layers in regard to it, the foreman informed us that it had been used as a keystone in a culvert just above "Could you not" we inquired, "have used another stone in its place and preserved this memorial?" "Why, yes," answered the foreman, "and I told the boss he had better lay it along side t'other stone, but he said Burr was a blasted mean cuss anyhow, and he guessed it would be more useful as a keystone than keeping alive his memory"—New York Letter

The Orientals consume but little, while their productions have ever been in demand among the Western nations As mere recipients, therefore, these nations have acquired the desire of accumulation and hoarding, a passion common alike to all classes among the Egyptians, Indians Chinese and Persians A French economist states that in his opinion the former nation alone hide away $20,000,000 of gold and silver annually, and the present Emperor of Morocco is reported as so addicted to this avaricious mania that he has filled 17 large chambers with the precious metals The passion of princes, it is not surprising that the same spirit is shared by their subjects, and it is in this predilection that we discover the solution of the precious metals This absorption by the Eastern nations has been uninteruptedly going on since the most remote historical period According to Pliny as much as $100 000,000 in gold was in his day annually exported to the East The balance of trade in favor of those nations is now given at $80,000 000 —Christian Union

WHAT SCOPE OF COUNTRY WILL SUPPORT A RAILROAD —Col Hammond an experienced railroad man says that a territory ten miles wide on each side of a railroad, in a country capable of sustaining an ordinarily dense population is capable of supporting it Whenever railroads run out from any commercial center, through such a country they will be sure to bring a sufficient population to support them, within a very few years after their construction if it is not already there when the road is projected This is for railroads of the usual construction and equipment It is but fair to infer that narrow guage railroads being cheaper of construction can be supported by a proportionally le[illegible] area and population

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 14, 1871.

The Issue for 1872.

When Senator Williams the other day presented in the Senate of the United States a certain violent and revolutionary resolution adopted by the Oregon Legislature, he was right in saying that it was "an indication of the position to be assumed and the issues to be raised by the Democratic party in the next Presidential election." The attitude of that party throughout the Union fully warrants this observation.

When Frank Blair was elected Senator in Missouri a short time since he made a speech in which he re-affirmed, distinctly, the doctrine of the celebrated Broadhead letter, which, more than anything else was the cause of the overwhelming defeat of the Democratic party in 1868. And Blair, in the ruffianly frankness with which he reasserts his utterances of 1868, has the sympathy and applause of the whole Democratic party. The central idea on which they are at work is the idea that all the results of the war and of reconstruction are to be overthrown. Accompanying this and incident to it is their hostility to the national debt and their desire to repudiate it. We all remember how this hostility found expression in the Democratic platform of Oregon last spring. The controlling element of the Democratic party is everywhere actuated by similar motives. It is the spirit which received the characterization of "Copperheadism" during the rebellion, and it is as unpatriotic and unsafe now as it was then.

The contest of 1872 bids fair to be as distinct in its outlines as was that of 1849. It will be a contest on the one hand for the peace of the country, and the preservation of what has been gained by the struggles of many years, and on the other for revolution, for discord, for the reversal of great questions that a majority of the people have again and again declared ought not to be disturbed or reopened. The issue will again be made up so that no one can misunderstand it. There is throughout the country a general fear of the consequences that might ensue, in case the Government of the Union were turned over to Democratic hands. There would be no feeling of security. No one could guess how soon the peace of the country might be disturbed. No one could be sure that the financial credit of the country would not be attacked and its trade and industries paralyzed.

On the other hand the stability of affairs, so long as the country is under Republican control, is assured. Nobody expects the peace of the country to be disturbed or its [illegible] to receive a shock, while Republicans [illegible] the ascendant. There is this difference between the two parties, and it is the greatest difference. The people will decree that the Republican party must continue to govern the country in order that there may be an assurance of peace, order and security, instead of a menace of turbulence, repudiation and revolution.

Referring to the call made on the President by Gov. Haight, of California, for an order to use troops in case of a disturbance in San Francisco at the last Presidential election, and the publication of the correspondence on the subject, the San Francisco Bulletin says: "The publication of these strictly Constitutional and Democratic documents puts the party papers to the trouble of defending what, had it been a Republican Governor, they would have bitterly condemned; while the Republican press is furnished with a good re[illegible] much unjust and unfair criticism upon [illegible] acts of the National Administration. Angered by the similar preparations to prevent a Democratic riot in New York, at the last election, and by the employment of [illegible] to preserve peace at some of the Southern elections, the Democratic journals have lately been unusually energetic in denunciation of Administrative use of the bayonet. The ridiculous point in the whole affair is the consternation of the Democratic organs at finding their own Governor had contemplated and provided for one of those 'high-handed acts of despotism' which have been so often held up for execration in their columns."

President Grant.

The editor of the Cincinnati Gazette, one of leading Republican journals of "the West," which, though not unkindly to the President, is certainly not his blind partisan, writes from Washington, recently, what is interesting to read, on the disposition of the President to call the best men around him. He is evidently fresh from familiar interviews with the President, and says of him and his present disposition, what others, who are in frequent communion with him, say privately:

> The President is firmly determined to keep together and strengthen the Republican party, and to this end there will be no change in the general policy of the administration. Honesty and economy will continue to characterize it, and those who suspect that the President does not understand the designs of plunderers or loose men of the party, and that he is in danger of being influenced by them, will be agreeably disappointed. Grant was not a politician when elected. He has, heretofore, made mistakes; but he is learning, and being honest and with a desire to do his duty, he will succeed if sustained by the people who have no other interests than those of the country to aid [illegible] from this class that the President should have advice. Office seekers and members of Congress who abound in Washington are dangerous advisers, and yet this is the class which most [illegible] seek the ear of Grant with interested and deceptive advice. From all that I see here, and all that has been said to me by the admirers of the President on one side, and by dissatisfied Republicans on the other, I am prepared to say to the people: Continue your confidence in Grant. He will come out all right! He has a terrible ordeal through which to pass, but he will prove in this case, as he did in the field, equal to the emergency.

The imperial mountebank who betrayed France by his imbecility, has issued an address from his departments at Wilhelmshohe to the French people, in which he informs them that "the Empire is the only lawful government." "The Empire" has cut a pretty figure as a "lawful government" since the day of Sedan. The French people are now holding elections and propose to establish a lawful government, and if the national assembly has any wise care for the future of France the feeble and corrupt Empire will not be restored. If it should be restored France may despair of rising from her present humiliation.

The London Times is shocked at the report of the German terms of peace. It says it trusts the report is not well founded, and declares that "nothing so exorbitant has been heard of in the history of modern war." Finally it expresses a "hope that this ungenerous programme will prove not to represent the settled purpose of the German Government." The secret spring of the regrets uttered by the Times is in the fact that the overthrow of France is a blow to British influence. England pities France because she feels the blow herself.

The New Government of Germany.

The consolidation of Germany is not yet fully effected, the issue being very similar to that which the founders of our own Constitution found so troublesome. It is a question of State rights against a national government; but the Germans have gone far towards settling it by compromise, as we did here. Germany consists of many different States, each with its own history, laws, often a separate coinage, and differing too in religious institutions. There is a wide difference between the political ideas of those brought up under the Prussian semi-military form of government and the people of Baden, who from their proximity to France have imbibed to a considerable extent democratic theories. Bavaria is strongly Catholic, as are also some of the provinces bordering on the Rhine, while other States are as thoroughly Protestant. The question which for years has occupied the advocates of German unity is whether it should be achieved by Prussia's absorption of Germany, or otherwise. While all Germans desired to see Germany become one, they were divided as to the method by which union should be achieved. By the arrangement now effected the Federal powers are to extend over the military and naval forces, the courts, coinage, and commerce, and will also control the railroads and telegraphs. Schools and religion are left to the local governments. But Bavaria, the largest of the minor States, is an exception to the rule. She has reserved certain rights which her sister States have ceded. She still has her own representatives at foreign courts, her own military force, which, however, can be summoned by the Emperor; her local excise laws, and her own "laws of residence;" that is, a German who is a citizen of any other part of Germany is not necessarily so of Bavaria. Wurtemburg, whose sovereign is the brother-in-law of the Emperor of Russia, has also retained some local privileges. There is a strong party, undoubtedly a majority, in Germany which is strongly opposed to allowing any State to reserve rights, but they have given way with the object of securing unity, and in the belief that time will do its work and the reserved rights be abandoned. The force of the smaller States in the Senate is very great. It needs only fourteen votes to defeat any amendment to the Constitution. By this means the small States hope to be able to prevent Prussia from exercising a preponderating influence. It is not difficult, however, to foresee, as a discerning writer in an English publication observes, that the Senate, representing the Princes and States, will not long venture to oppose a measure which the lower House, representing the people, and elected by universal suffrage, demands. The experience of the English House of Lords during the last forty years sufficiently proves that in matters of importance the representatives of the people always succeed in having their own way and overcoming opposition.

A controversial correspondence, occupying several columns of the New York papers, between David Dudley Field and Samuel Bowles of the Springfield Republican, is published. It arose from a paragraph in that journal denouncing the former for his professional association with Fisk and Gould, and their desperate schemes. Issue is joined on three points—the desperate schemes of Fisk and Gould, the limitations with which journalists should practice their profession, and the limitations with which lawyers should practice their profession. Mr. Bowles is strictly decorous and courteous in his letters to Mr. Field, but comments with great severity on the fact that any honorable man should have connections with the great rascals of the New York Ring.

OREGON.

Green Savery, an old resident of Polk county, died at his home on Salt creek last week.

They have a place on Yaquina Bay which is named Oneatta. It owes its present importance to Simpson's sawmill.

According to the Farmer the demands upon the nurseries for the various varieties of fruit trees and grape plants the present winter, are far greater than usual.

The Farmer reports that large quantities of land in the upper part of this valley has been sown with wheat the present winter, and that the work is still vigorously progressing. Unlike some other countries, we can make good crops of wheat from sowings as late as May.

The Corvallis Gazette learns that George Elliott has contracted to make three hundred thousand brick at Monmouth, to be used in the new Christian College building at that place. One hundred and fifty thousand are to be delivered on the 1st day of July, 1871, and one hundred and fifty thousand on the 1st day of September.

From the Statesman of Sunday: The City Fathers were to hold a meeting last evening for the special purpose of deciding as to what improvement and ornamentation they wanted put upon the public grounds of the city the coming year. The improvement of the Avenue will add greatly to the attraction of Salem, and we hope to see the work at least commenced the present season.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Germans of Boise City last week celebrated the great victories of the Fatherland.

There is a "cock rick" at Boise City. A local paper reports that "several new heads were manufactured there" a few evenings ago, among those who had assembled there to enjoy the elevating sport of witnessing a cock fight.

From the Farmer: We learn that peanuts will be cultivated to a considerable extent in Walla Walla and Touchet valleys the coming season. Seed, and Chinese laborers acquainted with the cultivation of the plant, from California, are already on the way for this purpose. We have no doubt the enterprise will be successful. Next fall we can have a supply of Washington Territory peanuts.

The good people of Port Townsend are now afflicted with the "terminus" epidemic, and have it bad, according to the papers published there. Town lots and land in the vicinity are attaining fabulous values, in the estimation of the proprietors, and folks have taken to buying and selling lots for a livelihood. But the fun is confined exclusively to the citizens of Port Townsend. Outsiders do not know that they have the "terminus" down there.

In a Wyoming tavern a mountain rough, venomously drunk, was practising with his revolver at various objects around the bar-room. An ox teamster entered, called for a drink, and a ball from the rough's pistol shattered the glass at his lips. Without a word the bull-whacker put his hand behind his back, produced his pistol, levelled it at the ruffian's head, and remarked as the body dropped to the floor: "That d—d scoundrel would have hurt somebody pretty soon." He then filled another glass and drank the contents, strode out as deliberately as he had come in, and with a "Whoa, haw, there," started his oxen up the road.

The Chicago Post, writing of the Democratic State Convention in Connecticut and that of the Republicans in New Hampshire, says: "The two parties, in their first vocal utterance for this year, seem to maintain their usual relative positions—the one as a snarling, growling prophet of evil, and the other as a courageous, enterprising, enlightened agent of the people, going forward in the work of progressive legislation to increase the average comfort and correct the abuses of the Commonwealth."

Glaciers on the Pacific.

PORTLAND, Oregon, 13th Feb., 1871.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

My attention has been drawn to an article in your issue of Saturday, the 11th instant, headed "Discovery of Glaciers on the Pacific," in which the writer states that Mr. Clarence King and his associates in their explorations last summer on Mounts Shasta, Rainier and Hood, claim to have made the first discovery of glaciers in all the territory of the United States, Alaska excepted. This, with all due deference to the writer, I beg to deny. Upwards of four years ago, viz., in August, 1866, in an attempt I made to gain the summit of Mount Baker, on arriving at the base, I first noticed a glacier, and pointed it out to my companions, Mr. John Tennant and Mr. John Bennett, both of Whatcom county, Washington Territory. It was covered with dirt and might easily have been passed unnoticed by any one unacquainted with glaciers. I also discovered four other glaciers, and pointed out them to my companions on the occasion of the successful journey in 1868, an account of which I published in Harper's Magazine for November, 1869, when their names and positions, with the exception of one, were given.

Long before making an attempt on Mt. Baker, I was convinced on a survey of it from Victoria, (from the experience I have had in the Alps) that there must be glaciers, and foretold the same to Dr. Robert Brown, of Edinburg, well known on this coast a scientific botanist. Wherever there are immense snow fields on a great mountain, the observer may be certain that there are glaciers at the foot, because they can only be formed and fed by vast reservoirs of snow in the upper portion of the mountain, and which geologists term neve. Every outlet from a great snow-covered mountain—that is, every ravine or gorge between the main ridges that run up to and prop up the central peak, must have its glacier, as found on the Swiss mountains.

Very respectfully

EDWARD T. COLEMAN.

WASHINGTON FACT AND GOSSIP.

It is said that Congress will put a vessel at the disposal of the French or German relief associations as soon as supplies are forthcoming and transportation is wanted.

It appears from official data that $36,750,761 has been refunded to different States for expenses incurred in raising volunteers from 1861 to 1871. The amount still due is $7,755,972.

The Secretary of the Treasury has directed the Assistant Treasurer at New York to purchase $2,000,000 in bonds each Wednesday, and sell $1,000,000 in gold each Thursday during the month of February.

In the course of debate in the House a few days ago Randall (Dem.) spoke against all land grants. Cox (Dem.) said the Democratic party would put opposition to the land grant policy into their platform. If the Republicans did differently it would only assist the Democrats to certain power in 1872.

Congressman R. R. Butler has had his trial on a charge of forgery, brought against him by the Commissioner of Pensions, and the result was a sudden and complete acquittal. The evidence was overwhelming and conclusive, both by oral testimony and written documents, that he had full powers of attorney to justify his action in the premises. The judge remarked that there was no valid reason for the prosecution, and arrested the progress of the case before the defense had concluded their testimony. The additional fact has become known that clear and documentary evidence of Butler's innocence has been in the hands of Commissioner Van Arnell, and was furnished by him to the counsel for Butler, on their demand. Van Arnell has supplied most of the ex parte information to the prejudice of Butler which has been sent out to the country during the past year, and his course, in the light of present developments, awakens no little surprise.

A Washington dispatch of the 4th inst. gives this: Many false and unfounded statements have been published relative to the action of the Postmaster General in investigating the claims of George Chorpening and the amount awarded him under the joint resolution of Congress. The facts are that Postmaster General Creswell, after the claim was presented and argued before him, decided against it, concurring in the opinions given by his predecessors, Postmaster Generals Holt, Blair and Randall, who had decided it on the ground that the case was res adjudicata. Chorpening then got through Congress a joint resolution which, by its terms, obliged Creswell, as executive officer, to allowed the sum claimed. With this his connection with the case ceased. He never signed any warrant or draft for the money or any part of it, or directed any other officer to draw any such warrant or draft. In fact no warrant or draft ever was drawn therefor.

THE THIRD LECTURE OF THE COURSE WILL be delivered by

Of Portland,

On Tuesday Even'g, Feb. 14, 1871,

At 7½ o'clock.

Subject—"Our Mother Tongue."

The language of a nation is the accumulation of the experience, the wisdom and the genius of a nation. "The heart of a people is its Mother Tongue," and it is only by learning that Mother Tongue that you can know the heart. It is only while listening to the "thoughts that breathe and the words that burn" from the lips of her poets and her orators, her historians and her dramatists that you can feel that heart beating responsive to your own. Thus we have an argument of great power in favor of studying one's own language, and therefore, to the American the study of the English Language is deeply interesting and important, not only for its great intrinsic merits, but also for its uses and applications to the great purposes of life.

Its History, its present structure and elements; its Contents, the literature of ages; its Speech, the Mother Tongue of increasing millions. Its copiousness and flexibility, its adaptedness and generosity qualify it for wider diffusion, and the people who fondly call it "Mother Tongue" is the most free, intelligent and enterprising among the nations. What then shall be its destiny? It is a sacred trust to be shielded from abuse and transmitted intact and pure.

"Old Saxon words, old Saxon words!
Your spell are round us thrown;
Ye haunt our daily paths and dreams
With music all your own;
Each one in its own power a host,
To fond remembrance brings
The earliest, brightest aspect back
Of life's familiar things."

Dr. Lindsley takes a high rank as a ministerial orator. His sermons and Sabbath evening lectures are attracting a large and rapidly increasing audience. He has a rich, well modulated voice, and his style of eloquence is forcible, convincing, and often fervid and impassioned, abounding in illustration, metaphor and ornament—every expression being a fine specimen of "Our Mother Tongue."

THE VIEUXTEMPS BROTHERS

Have kindly volunteered to furnish music on the evening of each Lecture.

TUESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 14, 1871.

CITY.

NONSENSE ABOUT KALAMA.—There is a great deal of foolishness published about Kalama. For instance, the Herald of Sunday morning had a batch of information which would raise a smile on the face of a Kalaman. The writer must have made a direct draft on his imagination for his facts. Says the itemizer: "Kalama at present is typical of enterprise and energy, and buildings are springing up all over it as if by magic." The facts are, that on Saturday, two buildings were in process of construction. One of them had two men on the roof nailing on shingles, and two men were engaged in framing the foundation timbers of the other. A half dozen others might have been engaged, either in preparing to build, or in putting on finishing touches to houses already built—such as cutting a window hole, or fixing a board up across a hole left when the building went up "by magic."

Again—"About one hundred and fifty carpenters are engaged in erecting buildings." The two shinglers and the two framers were about the only carpenters we saw (except the Co's men). Mr. Ballard, a Portland builder, has a contract, we believe, to put up the Co's office building; but on Saturday the excavation for the foundation was not yet completed, and Mr. Ballard's force of men were plying the pick and shovel, instead of carpenter's tools.

Another item: "Two hundred and fifty feet of wharf, at which the railroad iron is to be landed, is already prepared for planking." The fact is, the line of piles driven is about seventy-five feet long, and even these are not ready for planking.

Once more: "The foundation for the new hotel which was ordered built by a Chicago party is already laid." Not a brush has yet been cut from the hotel site, except it may be to make room for a little tent, occupied by a party of adventurers who are camped there waiting for something to turn up.

And lastly: "Workmen are employed in constructing the new headquarters of the company; foundation is laid and ready for the erection of walls thereon." A few men are at work excavating, but not a foot of foundation was laid up at 2 P. M. on Saturday.

With these exceptions, the Herald's information may have been correct. What we have said has no reference to the Co.'s employees; but even these are less numerous than we had been led to expect.

CHILDREN ABANDONED—A CASE OF HEARTLESSNESS.—We yesterday learned the particulars of a most heartless abandonment of children by a mother. A man named Sullivan, who boarded a part of last summer at the Railroad Hotel in this city, brought his family—a wife and four children—to Oregon a few months ago, and had been at work and living at some place up the river. Some time ago the wife came to this city with her husband's brother, ostensibly to look for a house in which to live. The husband followed in a few days, and found that his wife and his brother were registered at one of the hotels as man and wife. He had an interview with the wife and concluded that if he would join her with the children she would find a house, and they would go on as before. The husband went back to the children and his work. Last Friday he sent the children down to join their mother, with the understanding that he would be down in a few days. Meantime, however, the false wife and heartless mother ran away with Sullivan's brother on the steamer to California. The children were of course homeless under this state of things, and knowing nobody but the people of the Railroad Hotel they went there and though the [illegible] had no accommodations for such an increase of family, she took them in. Word was sent to the father, but a message came back that he had [illegible], and no one knew what had [illegible] of him. Under these circumstances it became a serious matter what was to be done with the four children. A neighbor agreed yesterday or the day before to take the eldest boy, a lad of twelve years. A little girl next in age, is still at the Railroad Hotel, and the other two, one of them only two years old, were taken to the Sisters Orphanage. They are bright little children, but have evidently been much neglected. We saw the eldest girl, apparently eight or nine years old, at the Railroad Hotel, yesterday. She had been taken also to the Sisters, but had cried so much that she was returned to the Hotel. She had finally fallen into a sleep, when we saw her, and lay upon the sofa sobbing as if her little heart would burst. It is a case to stir the deepest indignation at the vileness and heartlessness of the mother, and pity for the forsaken and homeless little ones.

ARRIVAL OF THE IDAHO.—The steamship Idaho, James Carroll commander, left San Francisco February 9th at 11 A. M.; crossed Columbia river bar on the 13th at 7 A. M.; arrived at Astoria at 9 A. M., and Portland at 1.30 A. M. on the 14th. The following is her list of passengers: W Barrowe and son, Chrisman, I B Titus, I Wilke, W B [illegible], Davis, S W Parceville, Mrs McNasty, Dusterman, Dr J B White, U S A, J C Beandring, Winter, E Conten, H P May, E O Severance, H H Davis, I Hume, F E Eldridge, W C Gardner, [illegible], wife and child; A K Glidden, Rev J G Deardorff, A Vouraco, G W Chabbie, Mrs Hendrix, Mrs Johnson and brother, Briggs, wife and 3 children; F S Miller and wife, M McDonald, Mrs Tulson, Mrs Tison, W Tison, N Randall, J McKane, Mrs Serveney and son, J Oppenheimer, Misses Serveney, C Stark, Dr Ellis, S A Hilner, W Everson, D Noolan, H M Jones, S Hoyt, Rich'd Derby, T Harris, W B Levens, [illegible], Malone, J Kellett and wife, C Lyon, J B Hankinson, T O'Connor, W A Peterson, and [illegible] steerage for Kalama and 92 for Portland.

HOLLADAY'S ADDITION TO EAST PORTLAND.—A new map of Holladay's addition to East Portland was received in the County Clerk's office yesterday. [illegible] in lieu of the one which was filed December 17th, 1870, and of which we made mention at that time. The plat of the new addition includes a tract of land since purchased by J. H. Mitchell and Sam'l Smith, and the map is filed in the names of J. H. Mitchell, Sam'l Smith and W. Weidler. It adds to the original addition sixty-one blocks—a few of them fractional—and four streets running at right angles with the river. The new streets commencing next to the original plat, are named Weidler, Clay, Montgomery and [illegible]. The town plat now has a length, north and south of 3,300 feet and a depth from the river front of 5,650 feet. The streets are mostly 50 and 60 feet wide. Holladay's Avenue is 80 feet wide, and the Park contains what would have been, if laid out, four blocks.

AN EXTRAORDINARY RAIN STORM.—Early yesterday morning a rain and wind storm, broke upon this city, which was almost terrific during its continuance. For two or three minutes the wind blew with startling violence and the rain fell as if poured down in sheets. A "torrent" would be a weak word to describe the rain fall. As a matter of course, the streets were all flooded. The surface drains being full of straw, paper garbage, etc., as surface drains always are, afforded material for choking all the sewers; so the waters accumulated, flooded the sidewalks, formed lakes at the street crossings, and overflowed the crosswalks and streets. There were deposits of garbage and rubbish at all the corners and sediment on walks, rendering the appearance of things, through the day, anything but cleanly or inviting.

REDUCTION IN FREIGHT AND FARES.—On and after to-day the O. S. N. Co's steamer Fannie Troup will make daily trips to Kalama, leaving Portland at half past two P. M., laying over night at Kalama, and leaving that place at 7 A. M. for Portland. She will carry passengers at the reduced price of twenty-five cents, and freight at one dollar per ton. The Oneonta, running to the Cascades, will carry passengers free, and freight at one dollar per ton between Portland and Vancouver. At these rates everybody and his whole family can go to Kalama cheaper than to stay at home.

THE DOCTORS OF OREGON.—For the purpose of furnishing statistics to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the Assessor of this District has been instructed to make return of the number and classification of practising physicians in the State of Oregon. This enumeration has been completed, and the following is the Assessor's recapitulation; Allopathic, 143; Homeopathic, 5; Hydropathic, —; Eclectic, 9; Miscellaneous, 22; total, 179.

LIVELY.—The real estate business seems to have received an astonishing impetus since the west side subsidy subscription was finished up. Twenty deeds were filed, yesterday, for record in the office of the County Clerk—a larger number than have been filed in one day for many months.

LOADING.—The bark Stella yesterday received on board 500 bbls. flour, in barrels, from Messrs. Hibbard & Co., of the Salem mills extra brand.

AMUSEMENTS.

ORO FINO THEATER.—Leo Hudson and her trained Bess still draw good houses at Oro Fino. To-night, for the first time, the equestrian drama of "The Cataract of the Ganges, or the Rajah's Daughter," Miss Leo in the leading character, supported by the entire company—a good bill.

VOCAL AND INSTRUMENTAL CONCERT.—There was a fine audience at the Baptist Church last evening, at the concert, given for the benefit of the church and society, under the musical direction of Mr. Barr, late of Chicago. The other performers were Miss Wilbur, soprano; Miss Lillie, alto; Miss Anderson, soprano; Geo. A. Buchanan, baritone; W. C. Hitchcock, basso; Miss Octavia Mercier, pianist; Mr. J. H. Stinson, violinist; and Misses Corinne and Blanche Mercier, balladists. Both instrumental and vocal performances were of a very high order, and many of the pieces executed were enthusiastically encored. Mr. Stinson, after a violin solo, was called out again; Miss Octavia's Yankee Doodle, with variations, on the piano, was encored, when she gave "Sweet Home, with variations, very beautifully. The "Larboard Watch," by Mr. Barr and Miss Wilbur, was a fine performance, as were also the "White Squall," solo, by Mr. Barr; The Old Mountain Tree, a solo, by Hitchcock; a duett by Buchanan and Miss Anderson; Annie Laurie, solo and chorus by all; "Kitty my Love and I," chorus; and several others, which might be justly mentioned in this connection. One of the prettiest things of the evening was the duett, "Come Home, Father," by Misses Corinne, alto, and Blanche Mercier, soprano, with an invisible chorus by all the others. The effect of the chorus was exceedingly fine. "Constantinople," by little Blanche Mercier was warmly encored. Upon the whole, the concert was one of the most pleasing and rationally entertaining, of the entire season.

ROBBERY.—On Saturday afternoon Frank Stevens was robbed, at the Fulton House of $500 in money, which was taken from his trunk, as is supposed, by a half-breed cook who had been up to that time employed at the Fulton house. About two o'clock this half-breed left, passing the tollgate toward this city and Mr. Cushing, the proprietor of the Fulton House had to cook the supper for his boarders. Mr. Stevens was one of the boarders, with others employed at Messrs. Myers & Smith's Tannery. When he came to supper and learned that the cook had gone, he suspected something was wrong and immediately went to examine his deposit. He found the trunk had been rifled of the money, but a couple of watches which were also in it, remained untouched. Information of the robbery was immediately given to the police of this city, but thus far no trace of the robber has been discovered.

STONE FOR THE CUSTOM HOUSE.—Mr. J. H. Hayden, who we understand to be interested in the contract with Lambert, to furnish cut stone for the custom house and post office at this city, will leave by the steamer California for Bellingham Bay to superintend the opening of the quarry from which the stone is to be taken, and to get the force of cutters well under way. He expects to push the work along as rapidly as possible, and to have one cargo here within the next two months. Mr. Hayden will be absent several weeks.

A LUDICROUS BLUNDER.—'Twas rather a funny blunder that was committed the other day by a good man who visited the Penitentiary to look after the spiritual welfare of the inmates. He began his address to them with the remark that "He was glad to see so many there." He at once realized, however, the awkwardness of the remark, was much embarrassed, and stumbled a good deal in his discourse before he recovered himself.

GERMAN POSTAL AGENT.—Mr. Lewis Goodman, of the firm of Seller, Frankenau & Co., has been appointed special agent for Oregon, by Gattel, the agent for the Pacific coast, to conduct the affairs of the postal money system under the arrangement between our Government and the North German Lloyds.

MARK TAPLEYS IN THE COUNTY JAIL.—Yesterday afternoon, while in the County Clerk's office, we heard a tremendous concert proceeding from some point evidently about the building, and upon inquiry found that it came from the prisoners in the basement. Getting an eligible position as a listener, we found they were singing "Auld Lang Syne" to a singular medley of words and rhyme, composed by probably not a very famous poet. One, who seemed to be conductor, would line off a half stanza and then all would join (in all imaginable varieties of voice) in singing it. This proceeded until the impromptu composer was exhausted, and then the hymn or song broke down with an exhortation from some devotional fellow, "Some brother pray," followed by a general and impious horse laugh. These fellows kept up their jollity every day, it is said, with singing, speech-making, preaching, auctioneering, etc.—under very discouraging circumstances, as it would seem to most men, seeing that most of them were under charges that may send them to the penitentiary. It strikes us that even Mark Tapley would have concluded it creditable to be jolly under the circumstances.

A MORNING VISIT.—Mrs. Graham—Kate, where is your mother, this morning? Kate—She is in the kitchen making mince pies. Mrs. G.—Why Kate, you surprise me! Mrs. Crocker told me only a few days ago that she was quite sick, and not able to be about. Kate—Oh yes, she has been quite sick; but the day after Mrs. C. was here, ma sent for a bottle of PLANTATION BITTERS, and has taken it three times a day since. It worked like a charm, and ma says she is better and stronger than she has been for years. She thinks it the best medicine in the world, and wants me to take some; but if it is so awful bitter I do not like it. I have taken it several times, but it gives me such an appetite that I tell ma her mince pies will not last long. Mrs. G.—Good morning, Kate. Give my love to your mother, and tell her she is safe so long as she has PLANTATION BITTERS in the house.

OR

RHEUMATIC CURE.

HISTORY:

THIS REMEDY IS COMPOSED OF THE ACTIVE principle of the Unk Weed, Eng.—Thaspium, Cordatum, Origanis, Lat.—Indigenous to Oregon—Grows most abundantly and perfectly in Washington county.

PROPERTIES, &c.:

It contains an active volatile principle extracted by Ether, and a bitter Tonic principle.

Medical Properties and Uses:

It is the most Sure and Speedy Cure for Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and Rheumatic Pains of all kinds that has ever been introduced in the Materia Medica. The Unk Weed Remedy as prepared by us, in consequence of the existing bitter principle, possesses the necessary virtue of being a POWERFUL TONIC!

Promoting the Appetite and Invigorating the whole Digestive Apparatus, thus building and strengthening the system, while at the same time the volatile principle, being absorbed in the blood, acts specifically on the Rheumatic Poison, removing it from the circulation and system.

There are few remedies known to the Medical profession which will remove the Rheumatic poison from the blood, but whose action is so powerful in depressing the system of the already enfeebled Rheumatic patient, that their use has to be abandoned before specific effects are obtainable. Hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence, heretofore incurable disease. Unlike these Medicines, already known, the

"Unk weed Remedy"

Though producing as powerful and as active effects on the blood and system in removing the Rheumatic Poison, also possesses a strong Tonic and recuperating element, which admits of its continued use even in the most delicate and debilitated. Thus we have the combination for the first time of these two necessary elements in the one remedy, which accounts for its superior and never failing curative effects in

RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATIC GOUT

AND

Of all kinds.

Fallacies about Women

[From the New York Home Journal.]

The cultivation of respect and courtesy toward our fair betrayers is to be most highly commended and enforced but we claim in this article to assault certain feeble prejudices in favor of women which have their foundation upon romantic rigmarole

THEIR SOLIDITY —For instance where is there a greater fallacy than in the belief that women weigh nothing? Yet in romance, even of this modern day we read constantly of heroes magnanimously rushing off with fainting maidens from blazing houses, or more ignominiously 'carting' them on their shoulders for purpose of revengeful abduction Let any one out of training, or under six feet of height and with proportionate strength, attempt to run away with a fairly well composed girl of eighteen or twenty, and give us his opinion of the powers of these vaunted knights A woman weighing one hundred and forty pounds and every ounce dead weight, is not to be chucked over one's arm and carried off in the smoke, and a hundred and forty pound weight of kicking womanhood is not to be carried off at all. Even a slight girl will weigh a hundred pounds, and Rudolph or Horatio will stagger under her lovely but cumbersome figure if he break out of a staccato walk There are plenty of buxom girls who weigh up to a hundred and seventy pounds and it is not given to every man to 'hurry off' with such a baggage When the victimized Squallina faints on the stage the robust baritone takes care that the enlèvement shall be accomplished as close to the wing as possible He knows what La Squallina weighs by the sad experience of rehearsals Let any of our readers carry his sister (he will probably prefer his cousin) up three flights of stairs without stopping, and forward to us his sentiments on the occasion Women weigh a good many pounds now a days and their airiness of fabrication is a fallacy

THEIR APPETITES —Another popular belief is that women eat nothing It is, of course conceded that they sustain life by the consumption of some article of nourishment but, taking in the wholesale acceptation, is [illegible] to female nature This fallacy is founded and sustained by women [illegible] during the affected period [illegible] private small appetites as being [illegible] a sign of semi angelic [illegible] this pernicious nonsense [illegible] carried out, the results on [illegible] squalor, red noses, [illegible] general limpness and [illegible] sequitur But, as [illegible] appetites at the fashionable [illegible] by those shrewd girls [illegible] healthy wants have been [illegible] by secret stuffing Need we [illegible] readers to the historical poem [illegible] Yolante in the pantry, gnawing a mutton bone, or remind them how she gnawed it, how she chewed it when she found herself alone? All this is a direct deceit, however practiced upon unsophisticated bachelors, who when they have made the dainty creatures theirs, find out by the butcher's book and the ocular proof what sturdy trencher women they have married Watch a healthy girl at supper during the intervals of dancing, she consumes by instalments four times as much as her partner, and seems, and is none the worst for it Our experience tells us that women eat in proportion to their weight, as much as men, and are no more airies in this respect than in the matter of weight.

Other fallacies regarding women are, that they must alway have the front seat, that they may strike a man brutally without retaliation [illegible] that a man must ride outside a vehicle [illegible] drenching rain to 'oblige' her, she [illegible] robust, hardy fabric, and he, perhaps, a consumptive, cold catching subject that she may win at cards and not be turned out of the game, that she may lose her bets but never be expected to pay, that she may be maliciously rude to the opposite sex without having her ears soundly boxed for it, that she may put questions to them regarding private and special matters, without being considered impertinent, in brief, that she may enjoy all the privileges of men without incurring the attendant responsibilities

Men are good humoredly contented to endure gross injustice from women because they are aware that they have brought the punishment upon themselves by permitting a latitude to feebleness, weakness indulged becomes a bully and a tyrant and in the face of this universally acknowledged fact, some of us are content to be overridden by butterflies and crushed by pigmies It is pleasant enough to pet a pretty woman and to fetch and carry her within discreet bounds but these should not expose manhood to contempt. [illegible] upset right, justice and kindliness because a woman is the asker, is altogether monstrous and unendurable

Married for Fun.

We find the following singular story in the Quincy (Ill) Herald

The quiet community round about Ben Bow, a small town in Marion county, Mo, about twenty-five miles from this city, was thrown out of its customary even channel two or three days since, and set in social agitation by the extraordinary matrimonial freak of a highly esteemed young couple, in which pluck had more to do than mutual attraction The sensation consisted in that the parties did not want to marry, never intended to marry, and had no idea of what they were doing until the wedding was a fact, the result of

A THOUGHTLESS DARE

The particulars, as obtained from a correspondent, show that the couple Joseph Chipman and Miss Nannie Hutchinson, one evening the present week, were passing the time in a conversation upon matrimony, without, however any serious import During the tete-a-tete Mr Chipman thoughtlessly made the boast that [illegible] back Miss Hutchinson out in [illegible] Miss Hutchinson retorted [illegible] could not do anything of the kind and challenged him a trial The young man declared that he would not go back on what he had said and that there would be a wedding that night unless she concluded to take back the challenge. The young lady was disposed to defy the young man, and while neither contemplated any serious ending to the affair, neither

WOULD GIVE UP.

The bridegroom thought that when the ordeal came the lady would hesitate the lady believed, for excellent reasons, that the young man, when the test came, would eat his challenge and postpone the ceremony. How much both were mistaken was recognized before many hours had passed It so happened that there was no authority competent to perform the ceremony, nearer than Emerson, four miles away, where a minister resided The young man proposed to go after a clergyman and have the nuptials celebrated that night The young lady not to be outdone in proposition declared she would accompany him and save time and trouble. The couple left home in a buggy, late at night for Emerson, with no intention of figuring as principals in a wedding, and leaving their acquaintances laughing at what they deemed a first-rate joke Arriving at Emerson, neither of the parties were prepared for surrender, and each determined to see how far the other would go. The minister was hunted up and got in readiness, and at midnight

SITTING IN THE BUGGY,

The words were said the parties joined and the benediction pronounced before they realized the situation What makes the affair the more interesting is the report that the bridegroom was engaged to be married to a young lady of the neighborhood, and intended and desired to fulfill the contract He is the son of a well-to-do and respected farmer, and will, it is hoped, prove a good husband The couple, though married when they did not want to have concluded to accept the situation and make the most of it. Though married on a dare, may never they have cause to regret their midnight nuptials

A SEQUEL—A SAD ONE.

From a party residing at Ben Bow we learned yesterday that the parties to the wedding that occurred in that town a few days since, an account of which we published yesterday morning, are in a sad predicament. The bride was engaged to a young man in that vicinity and was to have been, and expected be, married to him in May The bridegroom was as suited, betrothed to another lady, and the nuptials were to have been celebrated in a few weeks. The banter which led to the unexpected wedding was [illegible] at a party at which were the bride that should have been of the bridegroom, and the bridegroom to be of the bride, thinking it the time that it was a good joke Consternation prevails among the four most interested who do not at the present see their way out of a disagreeable embarrassment The married couple have not as yet treated the marriage as a reality, and are waiting at their respective homes until some way shall be found to release them of their difficulty The marriage was regular and legal, and so far there appears to be no help for the parties, who are sorely distressed

A Warning to Husbands.

A WIFE'S LABOR MUST BE PAID FOR

One of the female writers for the New York Revolution says that the great want of women at present is money, money for their personal wants and money to carry out their plans She proposes that they shall earn it, that they shall consider it as honorable to work for money as for board, and demands for them equal pay for equal work She demands that the bearing and rearing of children, the most exacting of employments and involving the most terrible of risks, shall be the best paid work in the world, and husbands shall treat their wives at with least at as much consideration, and acknowledge them entitled to as much money as nurses The meaning of this is, that wives are about to strike for greenbacks, so much for every baby born No greenbacks, no more sons and daughters No greenbacks, no more population no more boys to carry on the great enterprises of the age The scale of prices for maternal duties are as follows

Girl babies	$ 100
Boy babies	200
Twin babies	300
Twins (both boys)	400
Triplets	600
Triplets (all boys)	1 000

Terms C O D No credit beyond first child the motto being, "Pay up" Husbands who desire to transmit their names to posterity will please take notice

TROCHU'S ATTEMPT TO GET RID OF HUGO —Victor Hugo and the balloon has been a latent joke in several quarters But although it has been hushed up in Paris, and in those of the principal cities of France in which it got wind the story has, nevertheless, found vent in a Guernsey paper (Le Guernesiais), to the no little amusement of the inhabitants of that island, and those among whom the paper circulates Our readers will remember how we lamented, in a previous number, that so great an author as Victor Hugo should have exerted his energies and eloquence in exhorting the Parisians to look the bitter facts fairly in the face, instead of blindly and wilfully repeating all sorts of vain defiances threats and hopes as vain But Victor Hugo fell at once into the vortex, and went to and fro preaching and praying the same extravagances General Trochu soon found that all this was becoming troublesome, inasmuch as it kept up a continual excitement in directions in which he was not prepared to realize or at that time attempt He therefore invited the great author and orator one day to luncheon on a ragout of fancy dog, with a delicate fricasse of drain rat to follow—and of course, very choice wines, after which he proposed a stroll down to the quarter where a balloon was about to ascend for a voyage to Tours On the way, Gen. Trochu expressed his extreme regret that some eloquent man did not arise, in each of the great provincial cities, to exhort the inhabitants to the most vigorous resistance "And who," said the General, as they approached the balloon, now swinging by its lost cords, "who could do this so well—who could inspire their patriotism to the utmost heights so effectually as the illustrious author of Notre Dame and Les Miserables? Suppose, monsieur, you were at once to step into that balloon! There was a pause. The great author reflected He then said that he thought his proper place was in Paris and that he was ready to die upon the ramparts —Once a Week

'O! I FORGOT'—Of all the despicable excuses offered for omission of duty or neglect to fulfill an appointment, the most contemptible is the stereotyped phrase, "I forgot it" Many persons think it a sufficient apology for the neglect or omission of any promise, with us it is the worst The great French Minister, Talleyrand, once said, "a blunder is worse than a crime, for a crime may be the effect of circumstances, it may be guarded against, or it may never occur again, but a blunder is always likely to occur" We can forgive a crime but not a blunder The man who is always forgetting is utterly unfit for any public position

Not since 1849 has the editor of the Almanach de Gotha been so much perplexed with his annual labors The German war and the capture of Napoleon have turned all things royal and imperial quite upside down on the continent of Europe, to say nothing of the change of rulers in Spain and the overthrow of the Pope as a temporal sovereign In the Almanach de Gotha for 1871 France is introduced with the significant head-line of "Maison Bonaparte, Ligne Imperial, actuellement non regnante, and the fact of the Papal downfall is recorded, but no account is given of Victor Amadeus as King of Spain, his accession having been too recent an event

TO STOP BLEEDING —It is said that bleeding from a wound, on man or beast, may be stopped by a mixture of wheat flour and common salt, in equal parts, bound on with a cloth If the bleeding be profuse, use a large quantity, say from one to three pints It may be left on for hours or even days, if necessary The person who gave us this receipt says that, in this manner, he saved the life of a horse which was bleeding from a wounded artery. The bleeding ceased in five minutes after the application
